

Once, there was a boy with a brand new ball. It was wonderful; it almost looked like Darth Vader's ship, the Death Star

The little boy wanted to find some one to play a game with him.

He wanted to play the game of kickball

To play kick ball you have to have 2 people. They have to look at each other and watch to see which way the ball goes when you kick it. You are supposed to kick the ball right to the other person and then they will kick it back to you.

The little boy went to the park. He saw another boy that he wanted to Play Kickball. So, the little boy with the ball walked up to the other boy and said,

When the two boys were a few feet apart, the boy with the ball said, "Here it comes." And he kicked the ball to the other boy.

The other boy kicked it too. It came right back to the first boy. The boys had fun taking turns to kick the ball. They ran, laughed and had fun.

*That little boy was named _____
Would you like to go to the park to play kickball or do you want to practice here today?*

If you are going to go the play kickball, you have to put your special shoes and socks on so you can run and kick the ball.

Big boys put their own shoes and socks on so they can go to the park. That's what you need to do right now !
